FALL 2013

On behalf of the Unit 361 Board and its 1,245 members I would like to thank the following retiring board members:

Shelbie Bastiaans has been on the board for two years, serving as Membership chair and also served as Pro/Am chair at the Regional. It was the first time the regional has held the Pro/Am game. So kudos to Shelbie and her committee. Shelbie also initiated the wonderful nametags that our members are enjoying. They help everyone introduce themselves and we have received many great compliments from our players. Tom Burger has served as Budget and publicity chair as well as Photographer for the last three years.

For the past 2 terms (four years) Carol Levinson has served on the board serving as Secretary and Directory chair. Besides taking minutes she has kept track of all qualifiers for all North American Pairs and Grand National Teams to make sure the players are properly prepared for the semi and final competitions.

Blair Young, caddy chairman and vice-president retired in July to pursue directing bridge games. Thanks Blair, for your 3-year service on the board. He has been replaced by Margaret Devere. Welcome!!!

Special thanks to legal advisor Forest Clark and Ethics Chair, Susan Grauer.

Thanks to Bill Beard, 2013 Regional Chairman, we had a record attendance of 2,226 tables: Board-A-March, 44 teams,

PLATINUM LIFE MASTER

Reported by Don Heitler

This past Spring, Allen E. Kane won his 10,000th masterpoint. That is a very notable lifetime achievement. His middle initial "E" must stand for EXCELLENCE. Winning for Allen Kane is not an accident. It is an expectation.

He takes responsibility for his mistakes, which don't happen very often, and for those of his partner and teammates.

Having Al as a teammate is like having a bridge professor to help you into a bridge context.

Our congratulations are extended to Flo Newlin, who during the 2013 Denver Regional Tournament joined the ranks of those 565 ACBL members known as Platinum Life Masters, placing her above 99.66% of the 167,5551 ACBL members.

Flo was born in Alamosa, Colorado and grew up on a vegetable farm about nine miles from town. The foreman and laborers were Hispanic so she learned to speak Spanish while working the fields in the summer.

2013 CANDIDATES FOR DENVER UNIT 361

"I have been an ACBL member in Colorado for over 40 years. During that time I have been impressed by the enthusiasm and dedication shown by local unit board members. I would welcome the opportunity to serve as a member of the Denver Unit Board and to give back to the game that has given me so much pleasure through the years."

Jeanne Achziger

"I am a relative newcomer to Denver and Denver bridge. I came here from San Diego where I served on their board in 3 different capacities. Bridge has been a huge passion for me for almost all my life. I want to instill the desire to play bridge with the young people. They don't know what they are missing!"

Marilyn Ballon

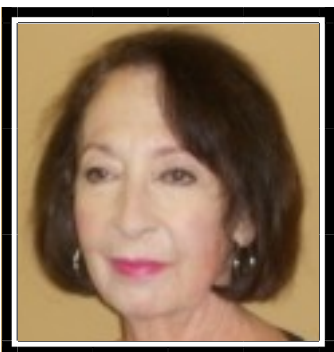

"Since moving to Arvada in 2008, I have been able to start Bridge classes both in area senior centers and Jefferson County Schools. While being on the Denver Unit 361 Board has been both fun and invigorating there is much more work to be done to advance popularity of the game of bridge in the Denver area."

Jim Calhoun

"I'm looking forward to joining the board and serving the bridge players in our area. We all love our game and enjoy the mental challenge and social interaction it provides. I'm hopeful to enlist more members and help to mentor all the newer players."

Pat Henke

"I am grateful for the opportunity to serve on the Denver Board. I hope to assist my colleagues in promoting and improving the conditions of play and enjoyment at all venues and levels of play. I also wish to encourage the enrollment of new players so we can ensure the continuation of this game that we all love.
Thank you "

2013 GOODWILL APPOINTMENTS

Penny Coffman and Jerry Ranney were appointed to the ACBL Goodwill Committee

I asked Al what you can do to show a huge hand after your right hand opponent opened 1 NT. As usual, I was given a better answer that I could have imagined. Al said that you need to have two bids to show huge hands. One bid to show a huge unbalanced hand. He suggested that the balanced hand could be shown by starting with a bid that showed the majors, and then bidding 2 NT when partner responded. The unbalanced hand could be shown by making a bid that showed some other type of hand that partner could not pass, and then bidding 2NT.

This gave me a bridge tool that may never come up, but it is a very clever treatment that is just second nature to Al and he was happy to share.

There are lots of things about Al that are not well known. Almost every year, Al disappears from the bridge scene for a few weeks and goes to Alaska fishing. He fills his freezer with salmon and trout and brings back pictures of the huge fish that he has caught.

Al had a career with the forest service and stays in top shape by taking walks that most people would consider hikes.

Al used to live in Pueblo, Colorado but now resides in a Denver suburb with his wife En, an excellent bridge player in her own right. En has become Al's favorite bridge partner, with only occasional games played with Chuck Henke, a partner with whom he won bridge events for many years.

If you look at the history of Colorado Bridge, you will see that Al won the Colorado Victory Trophy year after year after year. Others have won it once or twice, but for Al winning was a habit.

Al has played with lots and lots of teammates. It doesn't matter who they are, he is always the favorite to win it all.

"It was hard work and made me grateful for everything in life, especially cauliflower." Japanese was spoken in the home and it was not until first grade that she learned English. She graduated from the University of Colorado in Boulder with a BS in Medical Technology. She began working in a general laboratory and became interested in the field of coagulation.

Subsequently, she had an opportunity to join a colleague and they formed Colorado Coagulation Consultants (CCC), the first coagulation reference laboratory in the country. CCC not only performed esoteric testing on patients nationally, but also became a center for clinical trials and studies.

In 1997 she and her partner had an opportunity to sell their lab to Esoterix from Austin, Texas and she continued to consult for three years. Although formally retired, she is currently on the Board of Directors for AspirinWorks and serves as an FDA agent for a Nova Scotia medical supply company.

Early in her career, she married Cal Newlin, a well-known Denver bridge player, and they have two children and two grandchildren. Since retirement, they have taught interactive bridge to small and large groups. The number of students they have taught exceeds 300 and her love of the game is well known.

Her passion for bridge continues to express itself in her capacity of promoting bridge through her service on the District 17 Board of Directors as one of Denver's two representatives.

She loves her family, life, golf, reading, and people.

BRIDGE

OUR WELL-LOVED GAME

By Diann Miller

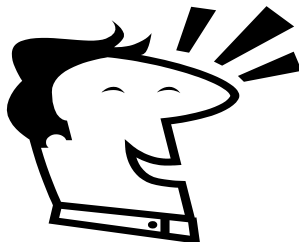

Those of us who play duplicate at the clubs and tournaments often forget there is another world of bridge: the players who enjoy Social games! Every Wednesday afternoon, I run a social game and I absolutely adore the players. We have a great time and would like to share our fun and love for the game of bridge.

The readers of this unit newsletter have probably not played a game of 'shuffle and deal' bridge in years and have not given thought to the many positives of the genre. One of my friends shared with me that when she was growing up, every Friday night her parents and another couple played bridge. She knew the couple as Uncle and Aunt...they were family. By the way, one of the instructors to this foursome was Bill Root and my friend still has an autographed copy of one of his books...and still studies it!

There are many social games in Denver and a lot of the participants are excellent players. Many social players continue to hone their game by regularly take lessons. Many are NOT interested in duplicate...some have had a bad experience at a club, duplicate table, but many have never been near a club game. These players are happy playing with their social groups and see no need for involvement in club games to participate in a GOOD game of bridge.

It is interesting, however, to overhear opinions regarding the club games:

- NO FUN
- One can NEVER talk, much less share a laugh

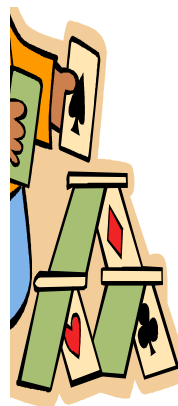

- Intimidation...they know so much more than we do and will hate us if we make a mistake
- They will be mean to us

Playing cards originated in the year 1120 in China where paper was invented. The game Bridge was derived from the Russian game of Whist around 1700; the word Bridge was derived from Britch, Russian for 'announcer' as the players announced their intentions. Bridge began as a social game. The European nobility played and George Washington was an ardent player who is rumored to have made side bets to increase the interest in his games.

Bridge has evolved to be one of the most popular card games in the world and today only perhaps Poker has more participants. There are more books written about Bridge than any other game except Chess. In spite of this popularity, we who love the game are concerned that the younger generations are not showing a lot of interest in learning to play Bridge. It is difficult for a stodgy old card game to compete with wide-screen TVs and hand-held, instantly available action games.

Perhaps it will be the social aspect of Bridge that will guarantee its survival. Partnership communication and social interaction cannot be made with the TV screen or the internet. We CAN share and interact with other humans at the bridge table: as social game participants .. we bid, we laugh, we care, we snack, we shuffle and deal: we play bridge and life is good
